

Stadiums, Sports & Entertainment Facilities

Newmark Valuation & Advisory's team of knowledgeable professionals are exceptionally skilled at analyzing the various business components of this unique asset class. Keeping in mind all traditional and non-traditional approaches to valuation that are typically called upon in these types of engagements, our specialists provide strategic & innovative solutions to serve clients' complex needs. We utilize our depth of expertise to determine feasibility, values, appropriate rent, tax and ground lease terms as well as to weigh the economic impact from financial, social and environmental risks and benefits.

Stadiums, sports, entertainment & concert facilities are complex assets with multiple income streams including ticket sales, team rentals, game day parking, luxury boxes/suites, concessions, naming rights, advertising, and tax incentives. In an increasing number of circumstances, the larger, more expansive and more diverse projects anchored by stadiums and concert arenas have yielded returns not only to investors, but also to tax jurisdictions through ripple spending by patrons.

While these facilities are typically massive and complex concepts, in comparison, there are thousands of single/multi-use sports-oriented facilities such as fieldhouses, tennis clubs, soccer facilities, ice arenas, and cinemas that have their own distinct nuances. Our team is experienced with all of these different types of assets. Our dedicated team has completed assignments of every size and complexity for owners, investors, developers and corporations, and understands every aspect of a property's operations, ensuring the delivery of consistent, objective and credible reporting.
